FAITH FOR TODAY CELEBRATES 72 YEARS! Faith For Today remains close to its grassroots mission, which is to reach secular minds and introduce every individual to the gospel of grace. This mission is evident through the continued success of Lifestyle Magazine, The Bible Lab, the live seminars of Mad About Marriage, The Choice, The Grief Sessions, and Emotional Health. Faith for Today is here to help; go to <https://faithfortoday.tv>

Who Was the 1st Female Adventist Minister? - Veteran historian and educator, Brian E. Strayer, at Andrews University would offer in class a reward of $100 to any student who could find a photograph of Sarah Lindsey (1832-1914), the first woman licensed as a Seventh-day Adventist minister. This challenge remained until a recently discovered photograph in the George I. Butler Collection at Loma Linda University. Born in Ulysses, Pennsylvania, she came from a staunch Seventh Day Baptist family. In later years she traced the beginnings of Adventism to their area to a tour by J. N. Andrews and Hiram Edson around 1851. By late 1859 she responded to a challenge to women “lacking in that heart consecration” and therefore reticent to preach. In early 1860 Sarah responded by asking the editor to resolve the biblical admonition whether it was right for women to keep silent in churches yet in other places the Bible encourages them to teach the Gospel. On July 16, 1861, Sarah married John Lindsey (1821-1881), a widower, who had been a Millerite believer and in 1846 was baptized by Joseph Bates. As early as September 1869 she received a ministerial license from the New York and Pennsylvania Conference at a business session held during camp meeting, Sept. 15-19, 1869). She is recognized as the first woman to receive a ministerial license in Adventist history
